Chapter 424: The Immense Form of The Absolute One

The True Nature of Sung Jin-Woo’s Physical Form

Sung Jin-Woo's evolution into The Most Supreme Deity did not diminish the vastness of his original form. Though he now existed in a transcendent, intangible state within the Godverse, his physical body retained its monumental proportions:

1. Original Form:

His true body remained a billion realms big, an unimaginable scale that embodied his immense power and godly essence. However, in his current state, this vast form was compressed into the size of a single realm.

This compression allowed him to retain the full capacity of his original form while existing as a more manageable entity within his Godverse, keeping his presence both omnipresent and centered.

2. Wings of Unmatched Power:

His wings, though capable of filling the entire sky and beyond, remained at 60 million wings, a testament to his unmatched divine power. These wings represented his connection to the cosmos, his authority over all realms, and his dominion over creation.

The wings were no longer just a symbol of his strength but also an extension of his will and presence, capable of shaping and protecting the multiverse.

Compression of Divine Power

Despite the vastness of his original form, Sung Jin-Woo's ability to compress it into a singular, cohesive realm-sized being demonstrated the limitless control he now had over his own essence. This power granted him:

1. Unmatched Stability:

Even with the power to transcend realms, Sung Jin-Woo's form remained stable and perfectly aligned with the laws of the Godverse, ensuring no disruption to the fabric of existence.

2. Control Over Reality:

His ability to condense his form and power into a manageable scale allowed him to simultaneously observe and interact with all aspects of his creation, never losing control, no matter the complexity or scale of the events unfolding in the Godverse.

The Perfection of His Presence

Sung Jin-Woo's 60 million wings were not merely physical appendages but living manifestations of his divine energy. With each subtle movement, they exuded an aura of invincibility and omnipotence:

1. Aura of Omnipresence:

His wings, though compact and immovable, spread their influence across all realms, protecting and shaping the destinies of countless beings.

The wings' ethereal presence was felt across the multiverse, their mere flap capable of altering the very flow of time and space.

2. Symbol of Unity:

The wings also symbolized Sung Jin-Woo’s unity with the multiverse. They were a constant reminder of his all-encompassing influence over creation and destruction, order and chaos.

The Balance of His Existence

The compression of his original form into a single realm-sized entity did not come at the cost of power; rather, it showcased his mastery over the multiverse's laws. Sung Jin-Woo’s body remained:

1. A Living Universe:

His very being was an embodiment of creation, capable of generating new realms and maintaining balance within the infinite expanse of the Godverse.

2. Eternal and Unyielding:

Despite his compressed size, his form retained all the attributes that made him the Absolute One. His divine jewels continued to function as the cornerstone of his power, interacting seamlessly with the neural network, hearts, and brain. The jewels' radiance had only grown more brilliant in his new form, providing a constant source of divine energy.

A Form That Defies Comprehension

Sung Jin-Woo’s ability to exist as a billion realms big, yet compressed into a single realm-sized entity, reflected his divine transcendence. He was no longer bound by the limitations of physicality or size. His presence, wings, and divine essence now existed as an extension of the very fabric of the Godverse itself.

His 60 million wings, ever vigilant, continued to symbolize his boundless power, sovereignty, and absolute control over all that existed, or would ever exist. His divine form, perfect in its balance, radiated the eternal essence of the Absolute One.
